CULTURE TOPIC

Indian Names

Due to India's diverse cultural groups there is variance between regions on naming conventions

Many people in India also have a 'pet' name – a nickname for family and close friends

Often you will find that an older female is referred to as 'auntie/behenji/didi', even if unrelated. Older men would be referred to as 'uncle/bhaisaab/bhaiya'

Indians may also use a different religious name

Many Muslims do not have surnames. Instead, men add the father's name to their own name with the connector 'bin'. For example, Abdullah bin Ahmed is Abdullah the son of Ahmad

Male Sikhs all use the name 'Singh'. It means 'Lion'

Female Sikhs use Kaur and it means 'Princess' and also can mean 'Lioness'

Most Indian names have a meaning! Find out what yours may mean
